Charisty Clamentine Panjaitan & Budi Suprapto

Abstract

Brand and brand positioning has become very important in today's global world. Every sector must create a brand and increase brand awareness to the society where the interactions have increased tremendously. Brand positioning describes how a brand is not quite the same as its rivals and how it sits in the customers minds. That's means when a brand can position themselves very well, the chances to success will increase. The main purpose of this thesis is to investigate the impact of customer satisfaction and social activities towards to brand positioning. The survey is conducted in the one of famous coffee shop in Yogyakarta, Lantai Bumi Coffee. The result show that there is a meaningful relationship between customer satisfaction and brand positioning of Lantai Bumi Coffee. There's also a meaningful relationship between social activities and brand positioning of Lantai Bumi.

A. Introduction

In today's global world, coffee becomes a trend, and drinking coffee has become a lifestyle. The National Coffee Association (NCA) discovered the percentage of daily coffee drinkers increased from 57% to 62% over the year. It's not surprising that coffee becomes more popular. People often go to coffee shop to get experience to accompany their purchase, work, study, or just meet people because coffee shop are considered capable of increasing productivity, increase mood and creativity, and help to make people stay more alert. This situation makes a lot of people interested in intervening to get into this business and become a coffee shop owner. This makes the competition in coffee shop industry become more competitive. In order to survive in today's competitive markets, it is vital to understand the brand concept, how to position the brand, and to understand and fulfill to the fullest.

In this paper, brand concept is explained thoroughly, and the elements of the brand (specifically brand positioning) are examined. The relation between customer satisfaction and brand positioning is taken into consideration. For this purpose, a survey is conducted in one of the most successful coffee shop in Yogyakarta, namely Lantai Bumi. Its customers' satisfaction in relation to the brand positioning in Yogyakarta market is investigated. The hypotheses have been generated:

H1 : There's a meaningful positive effect between customer satisfaction and brand positioning

H2 : There's a meaningful positive effect between social activities and brand positioning

B. Literature Review

Customer satisfaction is becoming one of the most essential objectives which any firm seeking for long-term relationship with customer considered as the top priority. Philip Kotler defines customer satisfaction as a "person's feeling of pleasure or disappointment, which resulted from comparing a product's perceived performance or outcome against his/her expectations. Customer satisfaction is a function of perceived performance and expectations. The satisfaction goals are established by the customers themselves before they set out to make a purchase. Once the customer selects the product or service, they'll start evaluating the actual experience against the expected one.

Social activities are considered part of what constitutes an active and engaged lifestyle, alongside cognitive and physical activities. Social activities are typically viewed as part of an engaged lifestyle that may help mitigate the deleterious effects of advanced age on cognitive function. As such, social activity has been examined in relation to cognitive abilities later in life.

A brand is an entity with uniquely differentiated identity, separating it from another notwithstanding any similarities. It is a term symbol, design, or combination of these which identifies the goods or services of one seller or group of sellers and differentiates them from those of other sellers (Cannon, 1980). Strong brand identity adds in reinforcement of the meaning behind a brand for consumer; communicates the essence of brand to other stakeholders and encourages a more strategic approach (Diefenbach, 1992). Branding is an influential marketing tool (Murphy 1988) that when used efficiently and effectively could provide value for the stakeholders, mainly company and customers, the evaluating the degree of the importance of branding, matters must be assessed from both sides.

Brand positioning "is the act of designing the company's offering and image to occupy a distinctive place in the mind of the target market. The result of positioning is the successful creation of customer-focused value proposition, a cogent reason why the target market should buy the product" (Kotler, 2003, p.308). In general, a well-positioned brand should appeal to the needs of a customer segment because a differential advantage/value proposition is created (Keller, 1993; Wind, 1982), since consumers' needs are more exactly satisfied (Day, 1984). A main objective in positioning a brand is to achieve active and loyal customers, which in turn would allow brands to charge price-premiums and obtain more effective marketing programs (Keller, 2001). Brand positioning is one of the keys in the business to make the marketing strategy. As such, brand positioning describes how a brand is not quite the same as its rivals and how it sits in the customers' minds. An effective brand positioning will help the business to boost the brand value for the customers.

C. Positioning of Lantai Bumi

Lantai Bumi was founded in 2016 in Yogyakarta. They were selling coffee-based and non-coffee-based beverages product and food as a side product. When Lantai Bumi started its business, it was only a retail coffee shop like other coffee shops. The main vision of Lantai Bumi was to educate and give an extraordinary experience to the customer by providing a very comfortable place, great services, and high quality of all the products. Lantai Bumi had segmented its market by geographic and demographically by choosing university centers area. As they targeted their market, many students came and not more or less of them became a loyal customer. This is one of the main staples of Lantai Bumi. However, with quick development and extension, the target market expanded. The target market grew to family, professionals, and tourists including both female and male.

D. Data and Result

Data were collected by spreading questionnaires. The questionnaires were spread among Lantai Bumi customers only in Yogyakarta. The reason for this is to make sure that the surveyor is Lantai Bumi customers and that they have experienced the Lantai Bumi culture. So, it is aimed to raise the reliability of questionnaire. The questionnaires of this research consist of two-parts. The first part consisted of questions on which personal information were obtained and the second part included questions to gather the necessary data in accordance with the objective of the study. A total of 21 questions were asked of the respondents and they were expected to answer each question based on 1 to 5 scale. They were 1:totally disagree; 2: disagree; 3: neither agree nor disagree; 4: agree and 5: totally agree. As a result of these questionnaire analyzes, Cronbach Alpha reliability of 0.487 was reached, which is reliable enough in the literature. Of the 100 randomly chosen subjects 54 were male and 46 were female. Majority of coffee customers were between the ages of 24 and 30. IBM SPSS software program was used to analyze the responses given by customers answeringthe questionnaire. The model of the study incorporates demographic factors and a product-based factor (i.e., customer satisfaction and social activities) as exogenous and brand positioning asendogenous variables which are shown in Figure 1.

In order to test H1 and H2 we applied Pearson correlation coefficient tests. Correlation between customer satisfaction and brand positioning that is cited in the first hypothesis was tested for validity and accuracy as can be viewed in Table 1

According to the data in Table 1 above, all of 16 items in this variable are all valid, which means all the items can be used to analyses the hypothesis further. The correlation analysis between variables was conducted to test the correlation of each variable in this research. Then if all variables have significantly correlated each other, the hypotheses proposed in this research were allowed to test by using multiple regression.

Table 2. Result

| Hypotheses | Independent Variables  | Dependent Variable | $\beta$ | t      | Sig.  | Conclusion   |
|------------|--|--------------------|---------|--------|-------|--------------|
| H1(+)      | Customer Satisfaction  | Brand Positioning  | .290    | 4.397  | <,001 | H1 supported |
| H2(+)      | Social Activities  |                    | .068    | 10.071 | <,001 | H2 supported |
|            | $R^2_{adj} = .803$$R^2 = .807$$F = 203.158$$Sig. = <,001b$ |                    |         |        |       |              |

Based on the result, the first hypothesis in this research proposes that: "Customer Satisfaction has positive effect towards brand positioning" is supported. The regression coefficient ( $\beta$ ) of customer satisfaction (CS1) is .290 with the value of t statistic for 4.397. Under 203% level of significance, an independent variable is said to be significant if the significant level is lower than 0.05. With significance level of <,001, customer satisfaction (CS1) is a significant indicator of the dependent variable (<,001 < 0.05). The second hypothesis in this research propose that: "Social Activities has positive effect towards brand positioning". Based on the result in Table 2 above, the regression coefficient ( $\beta$ ) of social activities (SA1) was .068. Under 203% level of significance, an independent variable is said to be significant if the significance level is lower than 0.05. With significance level of <,001, social activities (SA1) are a significant indicator of the dependent variable (<,001 < 0.05). Thus, H2 is supported. The direction of expected relationship between social activities (SA1) and brand positioning (BP) is symmetrical, so it can be concluded that social activities have positive relationship towards brand positioning.

E. Conclusion

From the analysis and research about customer satisfaction and social activities towards to brand positioning in service sector of Lantai Bumi Coffee, the author concludes that customer satisfaction and social activities has positive effect towards brandpositioning.
